Report Much Better Shooting This Season

With the opening of the shooting season Thursday last, quite a number of local sportsmen got out their shooting irons and hit for the different sloughs in the district. The favorite place seemed to be north-west of town and several good bags were reported. There are considerably more ducks in evidence than for several years and fairly good shooting is reported from all parts of the district.

20 Bushels Average Of Wheat Yield

164,000,000 Bushels As Estimate Production of Alberta's 1932 Crop

Alberta's wheat yield from the crop now being harvested will average 20 bushels to the acre, according to an estimate made by the provincial department of agriculture and released Saturday. It is also estimated that the area sown to wheat will total 8,200,000 acres. At an average of 20 bushels to the acre this would be a total yield of 164,000,000 bushels.

There has been little damage to grain from frost, but hot, dry weather caused reduction of yields in many districts.

The quality of the wheat generally appears to be very good, states the department, and particularly so in the southern areas, where large percentages of No. 1 Northern are reported. The indications are that the bulk of the wheat throughout the province will fall within the higher grades.

The primary department of Knox United Sunday school will hold an afternoon tea in the church on Sat., October 1st from 2 to 6 p.m. Proceeds in aid of necessary improvements to the primary room. Adults 25c. Children 10c. Come and do your part in helping this worthy cause.

Inter-Schools Track Meet.

The Rosebud Inter-Schools Track Meet will be held at Carstairs on Wednesday, October 5th. Schools participating in the meet will be: Innisfail, Bowden, Olds, Didsbury, Carstairs and Crossfield.

A full program of field and track events for both boys and girls is being arranged.

The cup was won last year by Crossfield school, and from all reports received they are making every effort toward retaining the trophy.

Local students have been training for some time and some good material is being developed. They say that they are going to bring the cup to Didsbury this year.

Obituary.

JOSEPH T. SHARP.

Joseph Theophilus Sharp passed away in the Didsbury General Hospital on Monday, September 19th. He entered the hospital September 12th for an operation for appendicitis and he appeared to be recovering splendidly, when complications set in and he passed away just one week from the day he entered the hospital. The remains were shipped to Indian Head, Saskatchewan for burial.

Joe was 26 years of age and was born at Indian Head, Sask. He came to Didsbury about seven years ago and made his home with his uncle, Mr. W. H. B. Sharp, working as a projectionist on Mr. Sharp's moving-picture circuit. His occupation took him to many parts of Alberta and wherever he went acquired a large number of friends and acquaintances, who will be sorry to learn of his early demise.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss: his mother and stepfather, two brothers and two sisters, all of Indian Head, and a sister in Montreal.

There will be service at Bethel Evangelical Church at Westcott on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Buy Alberta-Made Products Advocated

There was a good attendance at the Open House on Tuesday afternoon to greet the speakers at the meeting sponsored by the Alberta Retail Association, to put before the people the advantage of buying Alberta-made products. Mr. H. W. Chambers occupied the chair and expressed himself as being thoroughly in accordance with the objects of the campaign.

Mr. Howard Stutheby, trade commissioner for Alberta, who was advertised to speak, was unable to be present, having been called to Ottawa and it devolved on Mr. A. G. McKay, secretary of the Alberta Retail Merchants' Association, to be the principal speaker.

Mr. McKay at the outset pointed out that these meetings were in effect a follow-up campaign to the work done at the Made-In-Alberta exhibitions held in Calgary and Edmonton. He stated that 54,000 people had attended the Calgary exhibition, from the effects of which they had received encouraging results. He pointed out that the national governments had found it expedient to protect themselves against foreign competition, and that the majority of people were in favor of this protection. If this trade-at-home policy was good for the nation, it was equally as good for the province. He also pointed out that the trade-at-home policy is being advocated by other provinces in Canada, and cited what was being done along these lines in Washington and California.

He claimed that people had got into the habit of buying much-advertised goods, largely because of the clever advertising behind them, but an impartial test has proved that Alberta-made products were fully equal both in price and quality to goods made at a distance.

Mr. McKay gave a mass of statistics showing how Alberta employment conditions could be improved by people buying Made-In-Alberta goods. He showed that if the present industries established in the province were patronized to the limit, additional direct employment would be given to 5,500 people and that this would reflect in more employment in transportation, coal-mining, box making, printing and many other related industries.

Alberta shoppers can do much to bring back prosperity to Alberta if they will give preference to Alberta-Made goods when buying.

Mr. McKay stated that they had already held eight meetings and spoken to 1,400 people and were scheduled to hold eight or two other

Will Have To Import Butter

Only a couple of months ago in explanation of the low price of cream the farmers were told that there was a big surplus of butter in the country. Now a despatch comes from Ottawa that Canada will have to import butter during the winter. According to a memorandum submitted to Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, by J. F. Singleton, Dominion dairy commissioner, over the week-end, Canada faces the necessity of importing nearly 5,000,000 pounds of butter this winter unless butter production in this country is stepped up very materially.

Butter is selling in Montreal at from 22c to 22 1/2c a pound, which is a very substantial advance from last July, when it was about 16 1/2c. New Zealand butter is selling in London at 19 1/4c. It could be laid down in Montreal at the very same price. Add the 5 cents a pound duty to this and the excise tax and the cost would be slightly over 25c. Accordingly the Canadian price can go up considerably more before it would pay to import from New Zealand.

The Prairie-Chicken.

As a result of many farmers all over the district displaying the "no trespassing" shingles at the entrance to their property, hunters are going to find their shooting territory limited in this district. This action is not because the farmers are averse to game hunting, but the "nigger in the fence" is the two-weeks' open season for prairie chicken, when it is believed by game enthusiasts that there is a scarcity of this game bird all over central Alberta during a closed season. To prevent a possible extinction of prairie-chicken by the invasion of hunters, this method is being taken by interested farmers, who will strictly forbid shooting on their farm lands.

Farmers of this district know the game situation locally better than anybody else, and if prairie-chicken hunting will be improved by waiting another year, most hunters are sports enough to co-operate.—Olds Gazette

Initiative Wins.

When Marshal Foch was given command of the French army during the World War, one of the first things he is reported to have said was: "To be— with history and principles! What is the problem?" Though Foch was perhaps the world's greatest student of military strategy, he was no slave to it. He tackled each problem with initiative and vim. This method won for Foch.

The Review of Reviews magazine declares that a study of recent reports will show that these industrial organizations that exceed wine and obtained vim and initiative profited more than those which stood pat watchfully waiting, or those which initiated others. It points out that the larger the business, the more it tends to become standardized. System and routine often kill initiative and stifle progress. This explains in part why a small organization will so often place a new, out-of-the-ordinary product upon the market, something for which a real need has long existed but which no one previously appeared to have recognized.

Safety glass, now used so widely for windshields and bank cages, is the result of alertness and initiative. Non-shattering glass was discovered accidentally by a French chemist who knocked over a test-tube that had been used for months. Stooping to pick up the pieces, he discovered that the paste substance in the tube held the broken glass intact. Mentally alert, the chemist remembered that the tube contained a mixture of trinitro-cellulose, ether and acetone. Experiments followed and safety glass was the result.

Rear Admiral David Watson Taylor is credited for having been able to reduce the coal bill of the United States Navy by one-half, utilizing the bow wave for ship propulsion. A biscuit company making money only erratically saw its sales rise enormously by fashioning cookies in the shape of dogs, animals, and similar enticing forms. A manufacturer of towels was able to build up sales enormously by introducing towels in colors to harmonize with the bathroom tiles. Children's towels were created. Complete ensembles were worked out—towels, washcloths, bathmats. That plant is reported to have maintained full capacity throughout the depression.

Foods have undergone marked development because of research followed by initiative. It was discovered that tomato juice is rich in vitamins A, B, and C, and in three years, tomato juice has caught the public's fancy. Progressive manufacturers of canning machinery were alert to their opportunity. In two years the sales of canned tomato juice have a gain of 629 per cent., and bottled 177 per cent.

Today there is no paucity of opportunities. But there is paucity of vision, initiative and courage to capitalize them. As Chas. Kettering, vice-president in charge of research, General Motors Corporation, says, "Business will come back when we get products that people want to buy. If one-tenth of the energy was spent in getting such products instead of stirring up the mud, we would get along better."

The task of leaders is to lead. There is not an industry or a line of manufacture but affords unappreciated opportunity for initiative. Today, as during the days of the World War, executives might think to advantage as Marshal Foch was thinking when he said, "To hell with history and principles! What is the problem?"

Mine Taken Over By Workers

Interesting Experiment Is Under Way In Nova Scotia

For a quarter of a century the people of Inverness, N.S., have been working for somebody else. Now they will be in business for themselves, directing and operating the coal mine that is the only industry in the town, and marketing its products.

Their co-operative plan, approved recently by the government of Nova Scotia, is expected to banish the threat, long dreaded by the town's 3,000 inhabitants, that the mine would be closed.

Under the agreement with the government, operation and control of the mine has been transferred to a new company, the Inverness Coal Co-operative Company, Limited, members of which are to be miners employed in that mine and taxpayers of Inverness.

New Paint Seems Uncanny

How hot a kettle is at any moment can be told by the color of a paint which has just been invented. A kettle painted with the new material, which is a mixture of salts of mercury and copper, looks bright red when 64.4, but as it warms up above 140 degrees it becomes maroon colored. At 220 degrees higher it takes on a dull chocolate hue, and at boiling point it is quite black. Cooling brings its color back.

Feeder Purchase Policy

Designed To Encourage Water Feeding Of Cattle And Lambs

Renewal of the Feeder Purchase Policy designed to encourage the winter feeding of cattle and lambs of suitable type and quality is announced by the Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture. Under the terms of this policy, broadly put, the Federal Department will pay the reasonable travelling expenses of a farmer or his agent to the stockyard point of purchase, the feeder sales, or nearest station to range point at which feeder stock is purchased. To secure the benefits of the policy at least one car of stock (20 head of cattle or 40 lambs, or a combined car, figured on 2 lambs as the equivalent of one beef animal) must be purchased. Stock purchased is subject to approval as to type and suitability by the official representative of the Dominion Live Stock Branch serving the point of purchase. Special provision has been made to extend the benefits of the policy respectively to farmers of Eastern Canada, of the Prairie Provinces, and of British Columbia. Complete details and information about the policy and the benefits can be secured by writing the nearest stockyard agent of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, or direct to R. S. Hamer, Chief, Cattle Division, Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa. The policy is operative for a period of five months from and after August 1, 1932.

Canadian Radio Programme Broadcast From 'Plane

Contact Made With Station From Height Of 3,000 Feet

An advertising stunt that proved of some scientific importance was accomplished here recently when Arthur Dupont, local radio announcer, and Sydney M. Nesbitt, aeroplane club official, successfully established contact with a Montreal radio station while flying 3,000 feet over the city. Both men gave short addresses which were clearly received by many wireless fans. It was believed to be the first Canadian radio program broadcast from an aeroplane, though short addresses were broadcast from the airship B-100 over Ottawa in 1930.

Britain Is Providing Underground Airports

Planes Will Use Inclines To Come To Surface

Underground airports are to be provided for the British Air forces. This decision was made after it was found that no camouflage could hide the hangars from the powerful lenses now being used in military cameras. The new airbases will be at a minimum depth of thirty feet. There will be inclines for planes to come to the surface and take off.

Grow Seedless Grapefruit

Secret Was Originally Discovered By South African Plowman

South African planters have mastered the secret of growing seedless grapefruit, and bulk supplies are now beginning to be exported. A careless plowman discovered the secret originally. His blade came in contact with a grapefruit root and a small tree, growing from the incision, produced sterile (seedless) grapefruit. South African growers experimented and found that similar fruit could be produced only under special conditions.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and, if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon the interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

Motion Without Motive

Chinese Description Of Western Civilization Fits Speed Maniac

Judging by the number of convictions in recent weeks, the Ontario authorities are in earnest in their determination to make the highways of that Province safe for the average motorist.

There is rarely any intelligent reason for driving a car beyond a reasonable speed. Occasionally, in an emergency, fast driving may be justified. For the most part it is merely craziness.

One of the most frequent causes of fast driving is the desire merely to pass some one on the way to nowhere in particular. Which gives point to the Chinese observer's description of Western civilization as "motion without motive." The speed maniac might just as well be driving around an enclosed motor speedway as on the public highways. Perhaps something of the kind may eventually be provided for those infected with the speed virus—Winnipeg Tribune.

First Results Obtained In Scientific Attack On Weeds In The Prairie Provinces

Weeds stand pre-eminent among the causes of agricultural losses in Canada and early enough they have been the last of the pests of agriculture to occupy the serious attention of scientific investigators, states a report entitled, "Weed Survey of the Prairie Provinces," issued as the first publication of the National Research Council's Associate Committee on Weed Control.

In a popular account, entitled, "Weeds and Their Control," prepared under the auspices of the Committee for general distribution and issued simultaneously, it is declared that the worst weeds are widely adaptable as to soil and climate and even recently settled areas such as the Peace River district are being gradually invaded and will eventually be overrun unless more effective defensive measures are adopted.

An estimate of the losses sustained is made:

"The committee's experiments have shown the wheat yield of wheat plots to be reduced by 19 to 44 per cent. Taking 18 per cent. as a conservative estimate of the crop loss due to weeds in the prairie provinces, this would mean, at current prices for wheat, oats and barley, to well over forty million dollars for an average year. This must be added the high cost of the additional cultivation done to keep weeds within bounds, the cost of thrashing, handling and shipping to Port Arthur and Fort William annually the equivalent of 56 train loads of 60 cars each of wheat seeds, the direct cost of dockage, and many other kinds of losses due to weeds."

Dr. Robert Newton, Director of the Division of Biology and Agriculture, National Research Laboratories, and the chairman of the Committee, states in a foreword that cultural methods of control must be mainly depended upon, since the application of chemical herbicides is practicable only for small areas. Dr. Newton says:

"For most of the weeds fairly successful cultural methods have been developed, and we may expect great improvement along this line when we have available the results of the careful studies of the growth habits of weeds now being carried out by members of the committee. Previous progress has been achieved largely by the method of trial and error, now it can be based on accurate knowledge of the effect of different treatments in the development of various weeds. It would appear that general control may in future be achieved in proportion as educational campaigns are successful in inducing farmers at large to co-operate in the application of the best methods. Community effort is essential, as with many weeds reinfestation from farm to farm takes place readily.

"Weed inspection systems might be improved by centralizing within each province the responsibility for both the appointment and supervision of inspectors, and by extending the legislation to require the cleaning of the seed. Municipal inspectors are often poorly qualified and ineffective. The educational aspect of the work should be emphasized.

"This report goes out as the first publication of the Associate Committee on Weed Control. A second, dealing in a popular way with weed control, in the light of the new information already available to the committee, is being published simultaneously. Other papers, based on the large volume of investigation work under way, will follow in due course. It is confidently expected that these will be recognized as important contributions to the solution of a problem of the first importance to agriculture."

G. P. McEwen, Professor of Agronomy, University of Manitoba; L. E. Kirk, Dominion Agronomist, Dominion Experimental Farms, Ottawa; George Goble, V. G. Smith and J. M. Manson, weed investigators of the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, the Alberta Department of Agriculture, and the Associate Committee on Weed Control respectively, are the joint authors of the report entitled, "Weeds and Their Control."

The origin of the Committee is described in these terms:

"No such body of knowledge exists about weeds as about animal and plant diseases and insects, and until very recently no adequate investigations were under way to obtain such knowledge.

"In recent years the exploitation by commercial firms of various chemicals as herbicides has provoked a renewed interest in this old, but never widely used, method of weed control. The National Research Council, in response to requests from numerous organizations, called a conference in Edmonton in the fall of 1929, on the destruction of weeds by means of chemicals. At this conference it became clear that the whole field of weed control was urgently in need of investigation. The Council then appointed an Associate Committee on Weed Control, with representatives of the chief institutions concerned in the general problem, and the committee undertook the task of developing a co-ordinated programme covering all aspects of weed control investigations.

"Having regard to the practicality of organizing the work, it was agreed that the initial activities should have more particular reference to the prairie provinces. Mr. J. M. Manson, of the University of Alberta, was engaged by the committee to make a reconnaissance survey of this area, in order that the committee might have a better picture of the situation with which it was confronted. The results of the survey are set forth in this report."

Belgian Memorial Stamps

Dedicated To Infantrymen Who Fell On West Front

Special postage stamps have been issued in Belgium, dedicated to the glory of the Belgian infantrymen who fought and fell on the Yser, at Neuport, Dixmude, and other sectors of the Western front.

The design common to both of the two denominations consists of a giant figure of an infantry soldier clad in great coat, steel casque, and full equipment, striding amidst a blaze of light through the ruins of a village.

A total of 40,800 pairs was printed, and the stamps were sold at a premium upon face value in aid of the erection of a national monument in Brussels. Their values and colors are: 75 centimes (plus 37.25c) red; and 1fr. 75c (plus 44.25c) blue. They make a notable addition to the many issues of stamps associated with the world war and its aftermath.

New Type Of Building

American Laboratory Constructed On Lines Of Thermos Bottle

A big laboratory recently built in America has been made on the lines of the thermos flask. Its walls are constructed to prevent heat from leaking either in or out. It is built entirely of concrete, with not a single window. Outside is a thick coating of cork with an outer layer of bricks. This acts as a heat insulator and maintains an unaltered temperature of 70 degrees. It would be a month in the depths of the severest winter for it to fall to 59 degrees. The purpose of the laboratory is to study the light given out by atoms at certain temperatures.

One-Third- World's Sheep Within Empire

British Dominions Produce Large Portion Of New Wool

Nearly one-half of the world's raw wool and over two-thirds of the wool entering world trade are produced within the British Empire. Exports of home-grown wool from Canada have developed rapidly since the war, these exports now amounting to a yearly average of 7,000,000 pounds, about 40 per cent of the entire Canadian production.

The world's sheep population is estimated at nearly eight hundred million head, of which about one-third are in the British Empire. They produce between 3,500 to 4,000 million pounds of wool yearly, and of this amount about 1,500 million pounds, including much of the best wool, comes from the Commonwealth of Australia, South Africa and New Zealand. Outside the Empire the important producing areas are the United States and Russia. Of these territories only South America has a surplus for export.

Demand Is Greater Than Accommodation According To Report

During June 4,311 travellers flew by Imperial Airways between London and Paris, as compared with 2,209 in the corresponding month of 1931. The increase is notable and it is reported that the demand is greater than the accommodation. When Louis Bleriot, the French aviator, made his pioneer flight across the English Channel from Calais to Dover, a distance of 21 miles, in 37 minutes, on July 25, 1909, he had visions of the future of flying, but he could hardly have imagined that the science would make such tremendous progress in less than a quarter of a century.—Montreal Gazette.

STAND OF DOUGLAS FIRS

Stand of Douglas Fir on Vancouver Island, British Columbia. There are 127 billion feet of this timber growing on Vancouver Island.

When somebody said that trees were a thousand friends in one to man they did not exaggerate. It is for this reason that Mr. Frank D. Barnum is carrying on a Dominion-wide crusade for the conservation of our Canadian forests. The above picture shows a handful of Douglas firs near Victoria. There are estimated to be over 120 billion feet of this timber growing on Vancouver Island. Mr. Barnum has already bought a tract which is to be preserved for the public in his fight for the conservation of our timber.

Mr. Barnum says: "Trees protect and beautify our farms and gardens, protect our drinking water supplies, our water powers, fish, game and bird life; provide lumber and fuel, pulp and paper, labor and transportation, taxes and dividends; are our greatest promoter of health, beautify our city streets, protect our highways and check the ever growing menace of dust storms and hail provide shelter from the scorching days of sun in summer and the icy blasts of winter, prevent cyclones, damaging floods, erosion and loss of fertility of the soil; provide recreation and a tourist industry which, without cost to the country, ranks second in its importance, hence, including lumber and pulp, our four greatest industries are above dependent upon our forests, and in fact nothing that we use or eat or wear can be produced, manufactured or transported without the aid of wood."

"No other element of the universe has so many uses (4,500 in number), or is of such vital importance as trees."

The surprising growth of Vancouver's grain trade during the past ten years was summarized and clearly illustrated by R. C. Milroy, retiring president of the Grain Exchange division of the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange. The occasion was the annual meeting of the division.

For the fourth successive year Vancouver has exceeded Montreal in exports of Canadian wheat. Then years ago Vancouver exported 8,000,000 bushels, while Montreal shipped 34,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat. Last crop year, 1931-32 Vancouver exported more than 75,000,000 bushels of wheat and Montreal 54,500,000.

Ten years ago Vancouver's elevator accommodation was 1,500,000 bushels. Today, including additions now under construction, the port has the largest ocean grain elevator accommodation in the world, with 17,720,000 bushels. Montreal is second with 15,192,000 bushels.

In 1921-22 Vancouver exported 6 per cent. of the Canadian wheat crop. In 1931-32 this port exported 44 per cent. of the Canadian wheat crop. Montreal and the Eastern Canadian ports 37 per cent., and United States ports 19 per cent.

Ten years ago Vancouver's oats export was 250,000 bushels; last year it was 7,000,000 bushels.

Ten years ago this port's grain export to Europe was 4,500,000 bushels; last year it totalled 71,000,000 bushels.

Last year's export from Vancouver was 84,000,000 bushels of all grains, second highest movement in history of the port. Records were made in quantity shipped to Europe in movement of oats, in total percentage of Canadian crop exported.

Something New For Chicago World's Fair

Various Stages Of Manufacturing Taking Place Of Completed Exhibits

Chicago World's Fair in 1933 will be built on the theory that the "still exhibit" of previous expositions is out of vogue. Every exhibit will be in "motion." Instead of completed products on display, the public will be shown the various stages of the manufacturing. Because of this policy there will be thousands of employees working on regular shifts in temporary factories during the six months period of the Fair. It is expected that 30,000 persons will be on the payrolls of the various concessionaires, exhibitors and educational displays.

Fresh Water Leviathans

Larger Boats Make Faster Time On Lake Trips

In only a few years over the century Welland locks have grown from 110 feet long to 850 feet, because Canadian business requires to handle its boats that have grown from 100 feet to 820 feet. Moreover these freshwater leviathans that we have made to carry our wheat and ores can no longer spare the time to dawdle away 25 hours between Erie and Ontario as they have had to do. Speed goes with size nowadays and our newest and biggest carriers with their 25,000 tons under hatches can pass from lake to lake and clamber up or down the cliffs in a third of the time.—Montreal Star.

More Than a Five-Year Program for Hometown

Five-year programs are all the rage. Everyone wants to work out a five-year program to match the much-advertised five-year program of Russia.

Every hometown might well have a five-year program, but without any five-year limit attached. For instance, progressive citizens of the home community should be willing to subscribe to such a program as this:

"I will believe in my own community and give it the very best of my talents, remembering at all times that I am debtor rather than creditor.

"I will do just as much of buying in my hometown community as I possibly can, keeping in mind that thousands of dollars have been leaving our community unnecessarily each year in the past, going to make up the largest payroll in my community.

"I will take pride in the appearance of my community, remembering that my own home and its appearance contributes a great deal to the appearance of the entire community.

"If there is a Chamber of Commerce, or other organization doing the work of a Chamber of Commerce in my community, I will affiliate with that organization, keeping in mind that communities do not go ahead very fast or very far without the work of individuals. If there is no such an organization in my community I will see if it is not possible to have one organized.

"I will ever keep in mind that a community without good schools and churches is a community that is going backward, and in my community I will strive for the advancement of both, remembering at all times that I said "both" and not "one."

"In boosting and working for my own community I will keep in mind that there are neighbor communities going to make up the entire province, and I will give my neighbors and the province my best co-operation in the solution of their problems.

"In all my thinking along these community lines I will endeavor to forget self at all times and keep above the personal equation, remembering that real solution of all problems lies to do with the greatest number.

Such a program would hurt no one. It would make Didsbury a better community; it would improve every community in Alberta, and if followed for a few years would make this province the talk of the Dominion. Such a program needs no five-year limit, and would be well worth trying.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Prize lists for the Fall Stock Show and Sale to be held under the auspices of the Alberta Cattle, Sheep & Swine Breeders' Association, at Calgary, November 2nd-4th, have been issued.

Because he had taken about $150 worth of relief from the City of Calgary while his wife was earning about $15 a week, Dirk C. Stuart was sentenced to five months' imprisonment by Magistrate H. G. Scott on Saturday, on a charge of false pretences.

Farmers along Buffalo Lake have suffered to an appalling extent by ravages of ducks and geese, thousands of which have been raiding the wheat fields. Issuing of the special permit has not met the situation, as the harvester is too busy to use it. What is required is an earlier open season. Crops have been depleted in this section, and in some cases have been hardly worth cutting.

The individual farmer of the Canadian west, due to his own industry and resourcefulness, is in a stronger position today than he was a year ago, according to R. L. Burnap, of Montreal, vice-president of the C.N.R., in charge of traffic, who has returned east from an extended business trip through the west. The reason is because the farmer has succeeded in cutting down his production costs, and is therefore doing business on a more sound economic basis. Mr. Burnap, convinced that the individual farmer has succeeded in improving his prospects through his own efforts, said this year's crop was sown and is being harvested at less cost than any previous crop. "I have great admiration," he declared, "for the spirit that was shown by the western farmers in meeting the very difficult conditions that confronted them. They set to work to cut down their production costs, and aided by the members of their families, succeeded in doing so. It is too early, of course, to predict any very noticeable improvement in general conditions; much will depend upon the price at which this year's crop is marketed. The farmers, however, are doing everything possible to meet present conditions and have tackled their problems with a truly wonderful spirit. The result, I think, is a feeling of encouragement in many sections of the west. I talked with machinery men, who are predicting that next year there will be a renewal of demands for farm machinery." Mr. Burnap travelled over the Hudson Bay line to Churchill, and was impressed with the facilities established at Canada's new port.

WEEKLY JOKE

A lawyer was defending a man accused of housebreaking. "Your honor," said he, "I submit that my client did not break into the house at all. He found the parlor window open and merely inserted his right arm and removed a few trailing articles. Now, my client's arm is not himself, and I fail to see how you can punish the whole individual for a transaction committed by only one of his limbs."

"That argument," said the judge, "is well put. Following it logically I sentence defendant's arm to one year's imprisonment. He can accompany his arm or not, as he pleases."

The defendant smiled and with the aid of his lawyer unscrewed his cork arm, and leaving it in the dock, walked out.

Wheat and Motor Cars.

The tremendous influence of a good wheat crop on Canada's morale beginning now to be felt as the golden stream starts to flow from the prairies, is easily understood from a study of economic effects. First of all, a man who grows a "section" of wheat at 25 bushels to the acre, has 16,000 bushels of wheat, which is a very tidy fortune and an important factor in local business revival. Then the effects of the crop extend down through railway, storage and harbor organizations, and ultimately to industries generally throughout the country. The handling of the wheat crop is a big item both for domestic use and for export. Exports of Canadian wheat in the month of July this year were nearly 20,000,000 bushels, compared with 12,000,000 bushels in July, 1931.

The city of Vancouver is an example of a community benefiting from grain activity. Total shipments of grain from Vancouver for the crop year ending July, 1932 were over 84,000,000 bushels as compared with 74,000,000 bushels for the previous crop year.

Every cent added to the price of grain means several million dollars additional for the revival of Canadian business. Automobile manufacturers are confident that this year's crop will mean an increased demand for cars, especially in the western provinces.

Liner Card-Sharps
Have Lost Occupation
Practice Is Almost Unknown Now On Atlantic Boats

In many of the world's big cities today, including London, England, are the scattered bands of clever and well-educated men who at one time were expert card-sharps on the great luxury liners.

The depression, which brought about a scarcity of easy money, helped the police in their vigorous campaign against these men, who specialize in card-sharping aboard ships.

Their expenses were high, and the stakes at most of the games were too low to produce any profit after paying their fares as first-class passengers.

Card-sharping on the Atlantic liners is today almost unknown.

Indications More Favorable

Better Tone Said To Permeate Business Circles

Although no definite improvement has yet appeared in the volume of Canadian trade, a better tone pervades business circles and greater activity is in sight, according to a business summary of the Bank of Montreal.

Full average crops are assured, says the report. Wheat crops in the prairie provinces will run 100,000,000 bushels more than last year and low harvesting costs will be helpful to farmers and all branches of business. Except for hay, crops in other provinces are excellent. Livestock prices are low but marketings are large and the dairy industry maintains a normal output with recent advances in the price of cheese and butter.

Most manufacturers continue slight but shipping is better than last season; more grain has passed through Montreal; more British coal is being imported and a stronger autumn business is expected.

The report points to the general hardening of commodity prices as an encouraging sign. Export trade for July was higher than in any month since December. Imports were down, increasing Canada's favorable trade balance.

More confident feeling with a rise in commodity prices is reported for both the United Kingdom and the United States.

Why Outlined Profiles Are Called Silhouettes

Named After French Finance Minister Noted For Strict Economy

The black profiles called silhouettes are named after Etienne de Silhouette, the Finance Minister of France in 1759. Silhouette made an immediate name for himself by the stringent economies he effected in public finance. It was his policy to refuse to pay for more than "the shadow of any substance." The process of outlining profiles thrown by shadow on to a white sheet had just been introduced at that time, and as these pictures were considered exactly to resemble the Minister's avowed policy, his name was immediately bestowed upon them.

New Form Of Advertising

Interesting Process Used To Project Writing On Clouds

Sky writing, a new form of advertising in which the message is projected on the clouds at night, was demonstrated at London. The government recently decided the method was legal. The process involves the use of metal stencils placed in the beam of a powerful searchlight to cast letters on to the cloud base. The searchlight used is of 450,000,000 candle power. For skywriting purposes the limit of its really effective range appears to be a cloud base of about 3,000 feet high. Most of the legends shown contained up to twenty-five letters. Some include a design such as the British lion.

Ontario Relief Organization

Public Welfare Board For Each Municipality To Handle Direct Relief

Organization of a public welfare board for each municipality to administer direct relief is recommended in the report of the advisory committee on direct relief to the Ontario government and announced by Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works and Labor. Where possible, it is also suggested that an association or league of organizations interested in public welfare should be organized to act in an advisory capacity and arrange for the conduct of campaigns in connection with the raising of funds, etc.

Higher Education Popular

There were 57,294 students in the twenty-three universities in Canada during 1921, and 25,127 attended the 101 colleges in the Dominion. Of the net total of individual students at both universities and colleges there were 46,354 males and 29,798 females who followed the higher education. The diploma secured 35.7 per cent of the diplomas, licenses and degrees granted.

Increase Shown In Canada-Empire Trade

Statistical Review Issued By Department Of Trade And Commerce

Canada is becoming more empire conscious in her purchases. A statistical review, issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, showed that nearly 30 per cent of the Dominion's imports in July came from empire countries as compared with only 26.3 in the corresponding month last year.

The percentage of foreign imports dropped from 73.7 per cent in July to approximately 70 per cent.

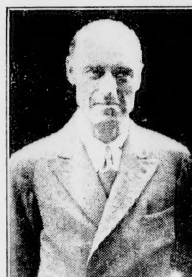

Compared with the preceding July, Canadian imports last month from foreign countries registered a drop of $10,521,246, while those from empire countries decreased by only $2,000,000.

In July Canada wrested from the Netherlands second place amongst countries of the world in supplying the cheese market of the United Kingdom. British trade figures, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports, show that the leading importations were: New Zealand, 16,002,008 pounds; Canada, 12,286,283 pounds; and Netherlands, 11,354,456 pounds.

There was a sharp advance in the importation of Canadian canned salmon by the United Kingdom in July. British trade figures give the amount as 1,726,928 pounds as compared with 488,872 pounds a year ago. The United States supply last month was 465,584.

Distinguished Visitors Deliver Addresses On Trip Through Western Canada

By the achievement of the Imperial Conference we have shown how a great group of nations can organize for trade purposes along right lines, is the opinion of the Right Honorable Sir Phillip Cunliffe-Lister, C.B.E., M.P., Secretary of State for the Colonies, expressed during a brief stop in Winnipeg on a tour over Canadian Pacific Railway lines to the west coast.

Sir Phillip was accompanied by a group of keen young British parliamentarians eager to see western Canada in the harvest season. Among them were his own private secretary, Captain T. L. Dugdale, M.P. for Richmond and Yorkshire, one of the largest agricultural constituencies in England; J. P. L. American Nature Association Party Meet With Success In Rockies

After four weeks on the trail along the northern boundary of Jasper National Park and the adjacent mountains of British Columbia, the American Nature Association party returned to Jasper Park Lodge with several thousand feet of big game motion picture films.

Under the leadership of Arthur N. Pack, Princeton, N.J., president of the association, the party included Lawrence S. Rockefeller, Tarrytown, N.Y., son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Mrs. Pack, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bryan, Jr., all of Princeton.

Some novel staking was a number of fine shots for the camera crew. Wearing wild costumes with hoods, Mr. and Mrs. Pack assumed sufficient interest among the ordinarily-suspicious goats to approach within a few feet of them on one occasion. In the Teton Valley the party discovered a herd of more than 100 caribou and acquired some fine close-ups. Later, in the Snake Indian River country, they ran across practically every kind of game in the Canadian Rockies.

"I got one fine billy," said Mr. Pack, "by dropping on hands and knees and instilling him when he lowered his head and stamped his foot to show anger. We exchanged boasts and compliments until I had crawled to within ten feet of him. Then he took to his heels and it all made a fine picture."

A Worth-While Idea

Here's a little idea worth keeping tucked back somewhere in your mind. Remember that it is always a good plan to remove the spare from the rack in the car or out of the fender well before jacking up the car to take off the flat. Otherwise, in getting the spare loose the car may be shaken enough to cause it to slip off the jack.

Flourish taken 21 times as much plant food from the field and pastures of America as is removed by harvested crops.

MUCH PREFER APPLEFORD WONDER PAPER

With so much inventive thought being given to eliminating necessary housework, it is only natural that a worthwhile substitute for the musty dust cloth should be sought.

Now it has been found! Appleford-Wonder Paper which actually dusters, as it cleans dust particles, is receiving a hearty welcome from Canadian women who detect dust cloths and all they stand for.

Wonder Paper is made from clean rags and soft paper pulp, thoroughly impregnated with a high-grade furniture polish, and absorbs dirt instead of spreading it.

Appleford-Wonder Paper comes in handy-size packages, twenty-five sheets, each as large as a doily. You merely crush a sheet into a soft ball, and go over the surfaces requiring attention.

You'll be amazed at the quick and lasting finish Wonder Paper gives. When one side is worn and soiled, simply turn the Wonder Paper inside out. After the furniture or woodwork has been gone over, you can still use your Wonder Paper on the floors.

And when you're through—throw it away. No dust to shake out or wash. No bother at all. The most obvious part of housework done in half the time and with half the effort. Doesn't the idea appeal to you?

Special Offer
Wonder Paper is made by the makers of the famous PRIMA-SANI floor waxed paper in the Green Box. Most grocery hardware and department stores sell Appleford-Wonder Paper. THREW AWAY HIS STICK

When Sciatica Yielded to Kruschen

There can be no doubt that this man has finished walking with a stick for it is now four years since he discarded it.

He writes:—"For 18 months I suffered with chronic sciatica and rheumatism, and was unable to walk without the aid of a stick. But after taking Kruschen Salts for a short time, I was able to throw away the stick. It is now four years since this happened, and I have had no return of the complaint, and have not lost a day from work. I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, as they are worth their weight in gold. You can use this letter as you please, as I can honestly recommend Kruschen Salts to any sufferer."—C. F.

If the eliminating organs become sluggish, they permit harmful uric acid to accumulate and deposit itself in the tissues, muscles and joints in the form of needle-pointed crystals, which, piercing the nerve sheaths, cause excruciating pains of sciatica. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the eliminating organs to healthy, regular action. Mischievous uric acid is then given no chance to collect.

She made no pretence at mourning the man who had turned her life into a living hell for nearly three years and who had stood like gaoler between her and the happiness which might have been hers had she been free. But the conditions, as well as her own feelings, dictated that a decent interval must elapse before she and Nick could be married, and this would be for her a quiet period dedicated to the readjustment of her whole attitude towards life.

The length of that period was the subject of considerable discussion. Nick protested that six months was amply long enough to wait—too long, indeed—but Claire herself seemed disposed to prolong her widowhood into a year.

"It isn't in the least because I feel I owe it to Adrian," she said in answer to Nick's protest. "I don't consider that I owe him anything at all. But I feel so battered, Nick, so utterly tired and weary after the perpetual struggle of the last three years that I don't want to plunge suddenly into the new duties of a new life—not even into new happiness and content to make you understand, but I feel just like a sponge which has soaked up all it can and simply can't absorb any more of anything. You must let me have time for the past to evaporate a bit."

But it required the addition of a few commonplace observations on the part of Lady Anne to drive the nail home.

"Claire is quite right, Nick," she told him. "She is temporarily worn out—mentally, physically and spiritually spent. Her nerves have been kept at their utmost stretch off and on for years, and now that release has come they've collapsed like a bubble—straining under the pressure that holds it taut is loosened. You must give her time to recover, to key herself up to normal pitch again. At present she isn't fit to face even the demands that big happiness brings in its train."

So Nick had perforce to bow to Claire's decision and it was settled that the first month or two, at least, of her widowhood Jean should remove herself and her belongings from Staple and bear her company at Charmwood. And meanwhile Nick and Claire would spend many peaceful hours together of quiet happiness and companionship, while Claire, as she herself expressed it, "rehabilitated her soul."

To Jean the issue of events had brought her nothing but pure joy. Her belief had been justified, and the grim gateway of death had become for these two friends of hers the gateway of happiness.

She had neither seen nor heard anything of Burke since the day she had fled from him on the Moor, although indirectly she had discovered that he had quitted the bungalow the day following that of her flight from it and had gone to London.

Judith sent her a brief, rather formal letter of congratulation upon her engagement, but in it she made no reference to him nor did she endeavour to explain away or palliate her own share in his scheme to force Jean's hand. Probably an odd kind of loyalty to her brother prevented her from clearing herself at his expense, added to a certain dogged pride which refused to let her extenuate any action of hers to the daughter of Glyn Peterson.

But none of these things had any power to hurt Jean now. In her new-born happiness she felt that she could find it in her heart to forgive anybody anything! She was even conscious of a certain tentative understanding and indulgence for Burke himself. He had only used the "primitive man" methods his temperament dictated in his effort to win the woman he wanted for his wife. And he had failed. Just now, Jean could not help sympathizing with anybody who had failed to find the happiness that love bestows.

She reflected that the old Gypsy on the Moor had been wonderfully correct in her prophecy concerning Nick and Claire. The sun was "shining" but not for them at last, just as she had assured them that it would.

And, with the same, came a sudden clutch of fear at Jean's heart, like the touch of a strange hand. The gipsy had had other words for her—harsher, less sweet-sounding.

"For there's darkness comin' . . . black darkness."

She shivered a little. She felt as though a breath of cold air had passed over her, chilling the warm radiance that ran so joyously in her veins.

CHAPTER XXXI.

An Unwelcome Visitor

Blaise was seated at his study table regarding somewhat dubiously a letter which lay open in front of him.

It was written in a flowing, foreign hand and expressed with a quantity stilted, un-English turn of phrase. The heading of the notepaper upon which it was inscribed was that of a hotel in Brest.

"Dear Mr. Tormarin," it ran. "You will, without doubt, be surprised to receive a letter from me, since we have met only once. But I have something of the most important to confide in you, and I therefore beg that you will accord me an interview."

When I ask to this that the matter approaches very closely the future of your fiancée, Miss Peterson, I do not want to myself that you will appoint a time when I may call, to see you."

The letter was signed M. de Varigny.

Blaise had received this thought-provoking epistle two days previously, and had been impressed by an uncomfortable consciousness that it foreboded something unpleasant. He could not imagine in what manner the affairs of Madame de Varigny impinged upon his own, or rather, as she seemed to imply, upon those of his future wife, and this very uncertainty had impelled him to fix the interview the Countess had demanded at as early a moment as possible. Disagreeable were best met and faced without delay. So now he was momentarily awaiting her arrival, still unable to rid himself of the impression that something of an unpleasant nature impended.

He glanced through the open window facing him. Afterwards, he was always able to recall every little detail of the picture upon which his eyes rested; it was etched upon his mind as ineffaceably as though cut upon steel with a graver's tool.

Although the mellow sunlight of September flooded the lawns and terraces, that indescribable change which heralds autumn had already begun to manifest itself. Not that any hint of chill as yet edged the Nicky atmosphere or tint of russet reddened the gently waving foliage of the trees. It was something less definite—a suggestion of maturity, of completed ripening, conveyed by the deep, rich green of the grass, the strong, woody growth of the trees, the full-blown glory of the roses nodding on their stems.

To the left, in the shade of a stately cedar, Lady Anne and Jean were encamped with their sewing and writing materials at hand, and the rays of sunshine, filtering between the widespread branches above them, woke fugitive gold and silver lights in the downy auburn and white-crowned heads. Further away, in the valley below, the brown smudge of a wide-bottomed boat broke the smooth expanse of the lake whence the mingled laughter of Nick and Claire came floating up on the breeze.

It was a peaceful scene, full of intimate happiness and tender promises, and Blaise watched it with contented eyes. The voice of Blaise, formal and urbane, roused him from a pleasant reverie.

"Madame de Varigny," announced that, functionary, throwing open the door and standing aside for the visitor or to enter.

Blaise rose courteously to greet her, holding out his hand. But the Countess shook her head.

"No, I will not shake hands," she said abruptly. "When you know why I am come, you will not want to shake hands with me."

There was something not unattractive about the outspoken refusal to sail under false colours, more especially softened as it was, by the charm of the faintly foreign accent and intonation.

Madame de Varigny had paused a moment in the middle of the room and was regarding her host with curiously appraising eyes, and as Blaise returned her gaze he was conscious, as once before at the fancy-dress ball at Montevan, of the strange sense of familiarity this woman had for him.

"I am sorry for that," he said, answering her refusal to shake hands.

"Won't you, at least, sit down?" pulling forward a chair.

"Yes, I will sit."

She sank into the chair with the quick, graceful motion of the South, and continued to regard Blaise watchfully between the thick fringes of her lashes. Had Jean been present, she would have been struck anew by the expression of implacability which hardened the dark brown eyes. By that, and by something else as well—a look of unmitigable triumph.

"I have much—much to say to you."

Monsieur Ter-ma-rin," she began at last. "I will commence by telling you a little about myself. I am—here she looked away for an instant, then shot a swift, penetrating glance at him—"an Italian by birth."
